

COUNCIL MEMORANDUM

Council Meeting Date: August 20, 2015

LEGISLATIVE ACTION ITEM

SPONSOR:

City Council Member Charles Bare

SUBJECT:

A Vote of "No Confidence" for the City Administrator

RECOMMENDATION:

That City Council discuss a vote of "No Confidence" for the City Administrator, Eric Olson.

AGENDA:

Regular Consent

Hearing Required: Public Quasi-Judicial No Hearing Required

SUMMARY:

Mr. Eric Olson began his employment with the City of Pensacola in September of 2013 when he was offered a newly-created Initiatives Coordinator position in the Office of the City Administrator. His starting salary was $65,000. In August of 2014, less than one year later, Mr. Olson was offered the newly-created Assistant City Administrator position. This occurred as City Administrator Colleen Castille left the city. Mr. Olson's salary was increased to $100,000. In that same month, Tamara Fountain was reclassified as the Chief Operations Officer. In March of 2015, Mr. Olson was promoted to be the City Administrator, and his salary was increased to $133,000. There was no public search process conducted for any of Mr. Olson's three assignments with the city.

Section 5.02 of the City of Pensacola Charter provides authority for the hiring of a City Administrator. It also specifies the fact that the "City Administrator shall have had relevant management, executive, or administrative experience." This should be expected for a position that is "in charge of the daily operations of the City." The ability to effectively manage a diverse seven hundred person staff is a challenging task worthy of someone who has significant management and/or administrative experience, preferably in local government.

Mr. Olson's resume demonstrates very little managerial or administrative experience. His last position prior to joining the city of Pensacola was with a local non-profit. Prior to that, his military career was spent primarily on staff jobs which involved no command or management of personnel. Mr. Olson may have been ideally suited for a newly-created initiatives coordinator position, but his experience was not sufficient to meet the Charter requirements for the City Administrator.

In a recent statement, Mayor Ashton Hayward told media outlets that former Chief Operations Officer Tamara Fountain was in charge of constituent services. This fact is corroborated by the Fiscal Year 2016 Proposed Budget in which an organizational chart lists this function under the Chief Operations Officer. Therefore, public records requests and constituent-related services should have been handled by the Chief Operations Officer prior to her departure. Mr. Olson's behavior in July of 2015 defies this delineation of duties. Mr. Olson contacted North Hill Preservation Association President Melanie Nichols' supervisor to make him aware of Ms. Nichols use of her military email account to send emails to the city. During the conversation, Mr. Olson told the supervisor that the city would be making changes to its email policy internally and he asked him if he could do the same on his end.

In an interview with WEAR, the local ABC affiliate, Mr. Olson defended his action by stating, "Anyone that knows me knows that I place a high value on public service and on doing the right thing. So, when I see something that's wrong and I know it's wrong and it's persistent and I know I can do something about it, I'm going to act. If that's a bad trait in a public official so be it."

Five days after speaking with Ms. Nichols' supervisor, Mr. Olson sent an email to city employees making them aware that "it is a violation of federal agency policies if an employee of one of those agencies uses his or her email account to conduct personal business." In the email, he told employees, "If you receive inquiries from someone using a .mil or other federal email domain that is not related to official Government business please politely remind the sender to communicate from his or her personal account." This directive requires that city employees monitor email and enforce other government's laws. Not only is this improper, but why did this directive come from Mr. Olson rather than the person who was in charge of constituent services, the Chief Operations Officer.

Mr. Olson's actions targeted a constituent who has been very active in our community on a number of issues. Ms. Nichols stated that the use of her military account was allowed by her supervisor and the legal department of her employer. This would have been very easy to ascertain if Mr. Olson had spoken with Ms. Nichols or, even better, asked the person who was in charge of constituent services to contact Ms. Nichols and make her aware of his concern.

Mr. Olson's conduct has had a negative effect on the relationship between the city and constituents. As stated on page 108 of the City's Human Resources Policy Manual, "The continued success of City government is dependent on the trust of residents, businesses, and others we serve. We are committed to preserving that trust. Each employee must recognize that the actions of any one employee can enhance or damage the reputation of all City employees. Each employee owes a duty to the City of Pensacola to act in a way that will merit the continued trust and confidence of the public." Mr. Olson's actions were not those of someone who was trying to maintain the public trust.

Mr. Olson's actions have eroded citizen confidence in the government that is supposed to serve them. His conduct is a direct violation of the following component of the City's Ethical Standards and Code of Conduct: "Adversely affecting the confidence of the public in the integrity of the City of Pensacola." Yet Mr. Olson believes his actions were just. He believes that policing other people's workplaces is more important than the core functions he was assigned including police, fire, parks and recreation, public works and financial services.

Mr. Olson's actions represent dereliction of duty and a disregard for the ethical standards not only of the City of Pensacola but those expected of all public officials. The International City/County Management Association Code of Ethics (Tenet 3) states that its members should "be dedicated to the highest ideals of honor and integrity in all public and personal relationships in order that the member may merit respect and confidence of the elected officials, of other officials and employees, and of the public.” It further states in relation to public confidence that “members should conduct themselves so as to maintain public confidence in their profession, their local government, and in their performance of the public trust.” These standards of ethical behavior should be applicable to all public officials.

Through his actions, Mr. Olson has diminished the confidence citizens have in the Office of the City Administrator and, ultimately, the Mayor. As servants of the people, this Council should act to demonstrate our shared belief that we are not confident in Mr. Olson’s ability to serve as the City Administrator of the City of Pensacola. Mr. Olson’s lack of relevant experience in management and administration is critical. More importantly, his crusade in pursuit of damaging the integrity and reputation of a hard-working constituent is intolerable. Finally, his creation of a new policy related to receipt of email from government email accounts may also be a violation of state law.

In a statement published on August 15th by the Pensacola News Journal, First Amendment Foundation President Barbara Peterson stated that “It is not the city administrator’s responsibility to enforce federal law. He is required, however, to comply with state law and I think his directive to city employees to tell requestors... they should be using a personal email address is ridiculous and could constitute a violation of the Public Records Law. Some local governments and state agencies have policies prohibiting employees from using government computers for personal business — is the city administrator going to start policing those who are in violation of those policies? How is he going to do that?”

Ms. Peterson went on to say that, “This is none of the city administrator’s business and rather than interfering with anyone’s constitutional right of access, he should be working hard to make sure city employees comply with the Public Records Law rather than erecting barriers to that right.”

The citizens of Pensacola should feel confident that the administration of our city is working for them. As we continue to ask citizens to step forward into leadership positions and work hand-in-hand with city officials, we must ensure that our actions are positive. Our citizens must not live in fear of retribution when they serve their community. The Council must act to let the Mayor know that we are not pleased with the actions of his City Administrator. A No Confidence vote will send a clear message to the Mayor and demonstrate that this Council is committed to serving the citizens of Pensacola.

The continued success of City government is dependent upon the trust of residents, businesses, and others we serve. We are committed to preserving that trust. Each employee must recognize that the actions of any one employee can enhance or damage the reputation of all City employees. Each employee owes a duty to the City of Pensacola to act in a way that will merit the continued trust and confidence of the public.

In general, the use of good judgment based on high ethical principles will guide each of us with respect to lines of acceptable conduct. If a situation arises where it is difficult to determine the proper course of action, the matter should be discussed with the immediate supervisor, or with a City official specifically charged with the responsibility of providing guidance such as the Human Resources Administrator or the City Attorney's Office.

Compliance with this policy of ethics and standard of conduct is the responsibility of every employee. Disregarding or failing to comply with this standard of business ethics and conduct can lead to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment.

B. Compliance with Existing Statutes and Regulations

Chapter 112, Florida Statutes, provides a legislative scheme for regulating the conduct of public officers and employees of all government agencies in the State of Florida. These statutes cover the solicitation or acceptance of gifts, doing business with one's own agency, the receipt of unauthorized compensation, salary, or expenses, the misuse of a public position, engaging in conflicting employment or contractual relationships, the disclosure or use of certain information not generally available to the public, and restrictions on the employment of relatives. These statutes provide for civil penalties including fines, dismissal from employment and other disciplinary action, paying restitution to the employing agency, and criminal penalties for specified offenses involving a serious breach of the public trust.

The City of Pensacola expects all employees to scrupulously conform their conduct to these statutes, and any violation of these statutes will be considered as disciplinary offenses by the City. The City of Pensacola will provide orientation and ongoing training regarding these important statutes.

C. Ethical Standards and Code of Conduct

In addition to the requirements and penalties contained in the applicable Florida Statutes, the City of Pensacola has adopted the following standards of conduct and ethics, which are applicable to all employees of the City. The general standard of conduct is that each employee should avoid any action which might result in or create the appearance of:

1. Using his or her public office for private gain;
2. Offering preferential treatment to any person;
3. Impeding the efficiency or economy of the City of Pensacola government;

4. Compromising the independence or impartiality of his or her office;
5. Adversely affecting the confidence of the public in the integrity of the City of Pensacola; or
6. Receiving compensation from any source other than the City of Pensacola for performing official duties for any work performed on behalf of or in connection with official City business.

These standards of conduct, while stated in general, are intended to guide the behavior of all City employees at all times. In order to provide more specific guidance in particular circumstances, the following specifications of conduct are provided as well:

1. Employees are prohibited from directly or indirectly soliciting or accepting gifts, loans, rewards, promises of future employment, or personal services that would or could create the appearance of a conflict of interest in the performance of official duties. Under this regulation, requesting or soliciting gifts or loans from subordinate employees is prohibited. However, this prohibition is not intended to affect the following:
 - a. Long-established practices and acts of charity such as donating leave to a leave pool benefiting co-workers, or the solicitation of charitable contributions for co-workers or others in need.
 - b. Employee recognition practices of the City of Pensacola and of the business community toward City employees.
 - c. Invitations to public events extended to City employees.
 - d. Awards, plaques, certificates, mementos, or similar items given in recognition of an employee's civic, charitable, political, professional, or public services.
 - e. The offer of food and beverages involving a value of less than one hundred dollars ($100), as authorized in Chapter 112, Florida Statutes.
 - f. The established practices of City employees engaged in fundraising or the solicitation of goods and services in support of such organized City-sponsored activities as Landlord Appreciation Day and the Employee Appreciation Luncheon.
2. City employees are prohibited from using or allowing a family member to use the employee's City employment to coerce or give the appearance of coercing any person to provide a benefit to himself or herself, or another person, particularly one with whom the employee has family, business, or financial ties.
3. No City employee may accept an honorarium from anyone seeking to influence the governmental decision-making of the employee or of the City, or who seeks to encourage the passage, defeat, or modification of any proposal

As a reminder – it is a violation of federal agency policies if an employee of one of those agencies uses his or her email account to conduct personal business. The clearest example in our area is when employees at area military installations use their .mil (navy.mil, dod.mil, etc.) email accounts to correspond with City employees about matters that are not for official Government business. If you receive inquiries from someone using a .mil or other federal email domain that is not related to official Government business please politely remind the sender to communicate from his or her personal account.

If you have any questions about this please get with me to discuss. Be sure to forward this reminder to your staffs as well.
